The Greeks

This was a year for the Greeks not to forget with the emergence of a new fraternity-the "Sig Eps" and the lost charter of another one-the PKT's. Still the popularity of these organizations was more than evident this year, as the number of jerseys around campus greatly increased. Fall and Spring rush seasons brought about a new wave of potential rushees hoping to join the brotherhood and spirit of the fraternity and sorority life. Stated freshman Gina Pellagrini, "I went through rush out of curiosity and to meet new people. Whether you plan to join or not, everyone should go through it just for the experience."

A Day In The Life Of A Commuter

Recent statistics have shown that of today's college student, 75-80% more are commuters, and less are resident. Loyola, is no exception!

A commuters life is full of many challenges. A commuter has: many commitments; is usually a first generation college student; is unclear about his career; and, usually is affected by his employment in his opportunity to become socially integrated into the campus environment.

Below, is somewhat a pictorial essay of a commuter at Loyola.

Thank God It's Friday - beloved words that were etched in every student's mind at the end of the week. Friday was a time to leave books at home and party with friends or celebrate quietly by oneself. However Fridays were spent, it was always welcomed at Loyola.

Fall Fest '82

Friday, October 29, 1982-a day of partying, eating, listening, a complete festival. Fall Fest '82 was enjoyed by everyone. There was good music, provided by Apt B, Galaxy and The Press. Also there was good food provided by Pilot. And, there was good weather. (Well, even if it was just for a little while.)

The day when faculty and students join together for a common cause-LUCAP's Childrens Day-brings happiness and smiles to numerous underpriveledged children. Most organizations give freely of their time and talents. Sophomore Susan Bellan says, "... To know that I brought some happiness to a child for even just a while, can make all the difference in the world."

Working To Make It Through

Filing, stapling, xeroxing, and grading-papers, papers, papers! Sound bad? Not really? These are just some of the things that belong to a familiar figure on the Loyola Campus-a work/study student.

Work/study students are located just about in every department on campus, such as History, English, Relg. Stud/Phil, and even the Counseling Center. Others work in the Rec Center, and Central Reproduction.

So, as a result of finding out all of this information, the Wolf Staff decided to go to the two biggest departments on campus that have a large number of students: Religious Studies/Philosophy and the Counseling Center, in order to get a good look at, "The Work/study student."

Jazz Fest '83

Expensive, but fulfilling all expectations could rightfully be placed on New Orleans' biggest party during the spring-the Jazz Fest.

Held at the New Orleans Fair Grounds, the festival provided good food: couchon de lait, boudin, jumbalaya, and alligator, along with good entertainment: Irma Thomas, Roy Ayers, Roberta Flack, Alvin Baptiste and Al Hirt.

A Mardi Gras Captain Says Farewell

Loyola business senior Philip Fricano saluted his alma mater of seven years when the Knights of King Arthur, Fricano's carnival organization, took to the Westbank with its theme, "Halls of Memories ... A Salute to Loyola University".

With 22 floats, 13 of which were double-deckers, separate floats for the King, Queen, and Captain, mini-floats for the maids and dukes, and a "Krewe of Prince Charming" float for the junior court which was comprised of members' children, Fricano saluted everything from academic departments to summer vacation.

Mardi Gras throw cups, coasters and doubloons all featured an impression of Marquette Hall and the university seal. Fricano, as captain, was the only member to throw maroon colored doubloons.

The krewe took to the streets Saturday, February 12 at 6:30 p.m.

Let The Good Times Roll . . .

Mardi Gras, alias Fat Tuesday, is the last day before Lent. The last day of three weeks of over-indulgence. The last day of insane craziness before forty days of fasting. And for Loyola students, the last day of vacation before returning to the somewhat less exciting environment of the classroom and all its seriousness.

As much as the streetcar, the French Quarter and the Mississippi River, Mardi Gras means New Orleans.

Shaping The Vision . . .

On February 18, 1983, shovels turned the soil on the beginning of a vision, a Communications/Music complex for the university.

The $13 million complex is the first step in an extensive campus master plan. To be located on St. Charles Avenue at Calhoun Street, the four-story facility will house both the Communications Department and the College of Music. The Building will include classrooms, offices, specialized instructional facilities as well as a 600-seat performing arts center. The completion date has been scheduled for November 30, 1985.

The special guest for the ground-breaking ceremony was veteran newsman Walter Cronkite, who was awarded a doctor of humane letters degree from Loyola. Other celebrities included Archbishop of New Orleans, Phillip M. Hannan, campaign chair-couple Mayor Moon Landrieu and his wife, Verna; former Lt. Gov. James Fitzmorris, and Congresswoman Lindy Boggs.

Goodbye To A Friend

Called once, "The Disneyland of New Orleans", Pontchartrain Beach will be closing its doors to its city after 54 summers, when construction crews begin driving pilings for a condominum complex beginning September 6th.

Since 1929, Pontchartrain Beach has been the amusement park for New Orleans, and now it will become history.

Gone will be the Zephyr, the Ragin' Cajun and the Astro Wheel. No more log rides, bug rides or sky rides ... no more cotton candy, popcorn, movies or concerts ... yes, this is the last hurrah, the last summer for a friend.

December Graduation

At 2 p.m., December 19, 1983, approximately 180 students received degrees in the Colleges of Arts & Sciences, Music, and Business.

What made this graduation so special is that it was the first ever to be held in December and to be held in the Most Holy Name of Jesus Church.

After many committee meetings, students finally received permission to graduate in December instead of waiting for the month of May and the traditional graduation commencement.

Congratulations, Class of December 1982.

Getting It Said For Loyola

The Course Consumer Guide, a publication consisting of evaluations of Common Curriculum courses, was among accomplishments completed this past year by the S.G.A.

The S.G.A. voted the Law School's, "Voir Dire" best funded event, and Chris Young, best congressperson.

The Student Government Association consisted of delegates from the colleges of Arts & Sciences, Business, Music, Law and City College, as well as the executive board and the Congresspersons-at-Large.

Loyola Union

Called the essential programming arm of the Joseph A. Danna Center, the Loyola Union is on the move towards an upward swing for the 80's.

Balanced programs of cultural, social, recreational and educational nature are sponsored by eight committees and an executive board called the Loyola Union, for the University as well as the Metropolitan New Orleans community.

Programs presented this year included art gallery exhibits, a tubing trip to Tickfaw, Easter vacation in Aukumal Mexico, and a day at the Strawberry Festival in Pontchatoula. Mime performances and musical groups such as "Harlem Hayday", were also on the Union's agenda.

Loyola Goes On Vacation

Mystery dinners ... coconuts from trees ... $15 for a taxi, and that's per person, folks! ... cerviche ... pina colodas ... pyramids ... snorkeling ... shopping ... mass in spanish ... discos ... a ride in a fish truck in pouring rain ... fast Freddie ... knowing whether or not we would get back to New Orleans ... all summizes a voyage to the unknown, to Aukumal Mexico, just an hours drive from downtown Cancun. ZUCARITAS

BSU

Unity and enlightenment among the Loyola community through cultural, social, and educational activities can be attributed to the Black Student Union of Loyola University.

The BSU is made up of some very concerned students who are interested in bringing to the Loyola campus, a sense of brotherhood.

Some of this past years activities sponsored by the BSU included: a cocktail party for all of the in-coming students, lectures by Maya Angelau, Julian Bond, and Judge Israel Augustine, a soul food tasting contest, and a school closing festivity with a performance by Louisiana Purchase.

One positive step by the BSU this year, was the removal of the Jungle King video game, as it was found to be derogatory to Blacks, and so it was removed from the Wolf Den as a result of the Black Student Union.

International Student Affairs

The Office of International Student Affairs is the center for information for all international students on campus.

The office handles all immigration matters, and helps international students become adjusted to university life through cultural, language, academic and personal matters.

The office also is the home of the International Student Association, a social and cultural organization, that sponsors many events on campus- To the right of this page, and on this page, are pictures of their biggest event, the International Affairs week.

The Wolf Pub is probably the hot spot in the Danna Center. It is just the place to unwind from classes, and have a cold beer to help you make it through the day.

Conducting campus tours, inducting new students to Loyola at Lagniappe, and assisting in any way possible at Exploration '83; These all sum up duties of someone important to a freshman-a Loyola Liaison.

Liaisons come from all areas of the country, in all sizes, shapes and colors. A Liaison is someone who knows and understands the problems of an incoming student. In short, a Liaison is a friend.

graffiti

By Tom Harmeyer

It's all gone. I'm in my favorite stall and all the old, familiar graffiti is gone.

Maybe it's not too common to have a favorite stall, but if you hang around this place long enough, you find a favorite everything — a favorite table at Hardee's, a favorite racquetball court at the Rec Center, a favorite seat in 107 Bobet, etc. Yes, I've even got a favorite restroom and in it a favorite stall. And until recently, I had some favorite graffiti in this stall.

I had to find out what had happened to my walls of worldly wisdom. What could I do now — I had reached my place in life sitting on the toilets of giants, and now their legacy had been destroyed.

Certainly, not everything written on walls is worth reading, but then again, not everything written in textbooks is either. Graffiti simply hasn't been given its due. The same people who repaint walls are the first to scream over book burnings. Yet, as a medium of communications, walls certainly outdate books. As far as we know, cavemen didn't have bison coloring books.

And let's face it — it's probably a safe bet that bathroom walls are more thoroughly read at Loyola than, say, philosophy texts, for instance.

A brief survey of Loyola students seemed to support this claim. Nearly everyone I asked claimed to read graffiti.

"Yes, I read it avidly," G., a political science junior, said. "It's good for a laugh. I'm disappointed when there is no graffiti; it's boring to just sit there and look at marble."

G. sounded like a man immersed in the true spirit of the form, so I asked him, "Do you write graffiti?"

"Yes," he said, "I write advice. And sometimes I write profound things about women."

Believing I had found my guru, I asked him to enlighten me. He couldn't remember any of his words to live by and alas no walls still recorded them. Bittered by this loss, I asked, "who out there would exterminate the product of his mind?" I had to find out.

My search led me to William P. Horrobin, director of WFF Management Services (the people who clean our walls). He said his department has a policy "to remove graffiti as it is found."

Though it seems he's been successful in his efforts, he said that his task can be "extremely difficult" depending upon the materials people use.

As an example, he cited the marble in the restrooms of Biever Hall, saying graffiti there "is almost impossible to remove." He then referred me to a cohort, Paul Fleming, Director of Physical Plant.

No figures were available on the average expense of combatting graffiti, yet Fleming estimated that $2500 was spent for "a graffiti remover on man-hours" repairing the damages of a major incident at the end of last semester, where the exterior of Marquette Hall had been defaced. Fleming said such acts take his people away from their regular duties.

Though less costly, the writing on the bathroom walls cannot be combatted so easily. "It seems to replenish itself," Fleming said. Despite this, he receives complaints from some students who are offended by what they read.

"If this were a bar or a lounge or somthing, maybe it'd be okay; but I don't think this is good for the school's image."

I wondered, do students actually complain about graffiti? Are they really offended by it? I decided to ask C., a public administration junior. He's a regular kind of guy.

"I like it except when it's crude," he said. "Some of it is very creative — an unsung artform." He said he was not offended by it.

C. said he even adds his wit to the wealth, but "only on desks. I do it only to take out frustrations — usually about teachers. I don't usually have much frustration in the bathroom."

Frustration? Is my scripture merely a product if frustration? Dr. Jake Jacobs, associate professor of psychology, said, "Some graffiti is an expression of anger, frustration, whatever; but some of it is more philosophic — creative.

"It's a kind of anonymous communication. People can say things they wouldn't say in conversation."

Jacobs says he often makes a special effort to read graffiti. "I use the far stall [where writing is most prevalent in a Monroe restroom] so I can read what is written. I want to receive that anonymous communication."

Until now, I had only spoken with men. Thus, I asked a female French senior to tell me about the graffiti of the ladies room. Ladies? Don't beleive it!

"Mostly, there are drawings. I suppose they represent what some women think about in the restroom," she said. I could only guess what that meant.

Is there a dominant theme?" I asked.

"Yes, but it's a bit embarrassing," she offered.

"Would I recognize the subject of the drawings?"

"I think so," she said with a blush. And we left it at that. Well, maybe all graffiti isn't meant to stimulate the intellect.

Having ignored all else during my long and arduous adventures, I now needed one thing more than all others — my favorite stall. I knew I would face the sorrow of seeing bare walls, yet I knew also that a man must do what a man must do.

Entering, I took my usual place, yet fought off the urge to make my usual glances left and right. Finally, I yielded on the possibility that a renaissance had begun. And lo, to the left, what did I see?

"I like grils.
That's girls, stupid.
What about us grils?"

And lo, to the right, what did I read?

"To be is to do — Plato;
To do is to be — Nietzche;
Doo be doo be do — Sinatra;
Scooby Doo — Scooby Doo."

A new era had begun! Life as we know it would continue! Graffiti lives!

Circle K

Under the direction of its president, Bill Hydrick, Circle K performed many activities this year including visits to local hospitals and institutions.

The organization also sponsored various activities on campus, including the lighting of a Christmas tree, bathtub races for charity, and the selling doughnuts at pre-registration.

In community centers, prisons, rest homes, schools, and residential treatment homes for abused and battered children; — they're everywhere — they're L*U*C*A*P (Loyola University's Community Action Program).

L*U*C*A*P is composed of students who want to get involved. L*U*C*A*P offers students an opportunity to grow and meet other people. Besides volunteer work, L*U*C*A*P offers semesterly retreats, workshops, and parties for personal reflection and fun.

Interfraternity Council

Alpha Delta Gamma

The "Incognito" party was just one of the many events that can be attributed to the biggest fraternity on the Loyola campus-Alpha Delta Gamma.

A.D.G. is an organization of brotherhood that maintains qualities of love and mutual respect. They promote spiritual and scholastic activities, service to others, and competiton in sports-all in a liaison with the Loyola campus.

Beggars

Since their beginning as a fraternity at Loyola, Beggars has proved time and time again that they posses a high fraternal spirit within their organization.

The Beggars enjoy socializing, and this past school year was no different. Headling this past year's activities was a Bahama Mama, and a Pajama party, along with the traditional Winter and Spring formals.

Right- Scott Shea and Pasha Meimann start the weekend early. Bottom-Beggars and their little sisters gather for this shot after a baseball game.

Sigma Phi Epsilon

During its first year on campus, the Sigma Epsilon chapter of, "Sig Ep" inducted thirty-one Loyola students. The pledges spent their spring semester learning the fraternity's history and developing a sense of brotherhood.

Left- Art Eschbacher, Evi Rodriguez, and Dennis Van Deusen-T.G.I.F.
Below- The 1983 pledges of Sigma Phi Epsilon

Theta Phi

The 1982-83 school year was a busy one for Theta Phi, with a swinging 60's party, the traditional Christmas party, and many other social events.

The organization also visited various residential treatment homes, including the home for abused children in October.

Right: Members of Theta Phi, along with their big brothers, get ready for the Dixie Brewery party.
Bottom: Theta Phi members.

Phi Phi Phi

Although the Tri Phi's leave no doubt that they take their sorority and its work seriously --- the club works with underprivileged children --- Gina Pellegrini (far left) and Cathy Cross display the club's lighter side as they sip beer during one of the sorority's many car washes.

Below: Members of Phi Phi Phi

Delta Sigma Pi

Delta Sigma Pi encourages scholarship, social activity, and the association of students for their mutual advancement by research and practice. They try to promote a closer affiliation between the commercial world and commerce students, higher ethics and the civic and common welfare of the community.

Let me live my life from year to year,
With forward face and unreluctant soul,
Not hastening to, nor turning from the goal;
Not mourning for the things that disappear
In the dim past, nor holding back in fear
From what the future veils; but with a whole
And happy heart, that pays its toll
To youth and age, and travels on with cheer.
So let the way wind up hill or down,
Through rough or smooth, the journey will be joy;
Still seeking what I sought but when a boy,
New friendship, high adventure, and a crown,
I shall grow, but never lose life's zest,
Because the road's last turn will be the best.

Day comes slowly up north,
From the first thin white of dawn's
Beginning to the last gold, dissolving
When the long beams of the sun at last
Lie level on the earth. It comes as slowly
As our trees grow, our apples ripen,
Or the day turns toward night.
We have a long time to think about change
And to be Tempered to what will come.
We have a long time to hold life
Within our hands and savor it
And know it good — juniper and oak,
From laying the fire to the last pale smoke.

Faculty/Staff

Dedication

Since July 1, 1975, Manny Cunard, Director of the Joseph A. Danna Center and Student Activities, has served the Loyola community in a manner that can only be labeled as a labor of love.

Words cannot express the dedication that Manny has given the Loyola community throughout the years of his service. Hardee's food service, Prismatic Artists, BNO, and the video and listening lounges all leave indication that someone cared, and showed it.

Manny has truely shown that student life in frats, sororities, intramurals, and other organizations are all an essential factor in a person's educational experience at Loyola.

Manny also has been a big supporter of the Wolf yearbook, and has stood by it in times of need. Manny resurrected the yearbook in 1977, and since then, the book has been produced for the past four years, with this book making the fifth. This is the first book that has been completed entirely by this yearbook staff, with Manny serving as a consultant in times of need. And, this editor can truely speak for the staff when I say that it was an honor for us to have been associated with this man the past two years.

And so, in honor of Manuel R. Cunard's departure from Loyola University, the 1982-83 yearbook is hereby dedicated to him, and to his eight years of dedication to Loyola.

Manny, good luck in Colorado, and may you give to them what you gave to us-yourself!

AIN'T NOTHIN' MORE LOYOLA THAN INTRAMURALS

PRARIE DOGS BARK TO NATIONAL

The dominant force in Intramurals this year at Loyola was the Prarie Dogs, a team composed of students from the Law School. After capturing the mens' aa title at Loyola, the dogs went on the road to the nationals. Their adventure proved successful by placing two members on the All American team, captain W.J. LeBlanc and Dave Bourgeois. Other members included Charlie Spinuzza, Tommy Milazzo, Steve Duvalle, Andre Couchain, Pete Connick, Dave Persons, Jim Fitzgerald, and George Le Farber.

Dave Bourgeois and W.J. Leblanc proudly display their All American trophies.

Flag Football Kicks Off Intramurals

The flag football leagues opened up an exciting intramural season this fall. Divided into two leagues (AA and A), the men competed each Saturday near Bayou St. John in City Park. The Bud Suds defeated the Mighty Flux 19-14 in the Single A Championship game. In the Double A finals, the Prarie Dogs squeaked by the Black Plague 29-27.

Both Co-Rec and Women's intramural games were played closer to home in the residential quad. War, Famine, Plague and Death topped E.T. 26-13 to win the Co-Rec championship. The women's champ was The Super Sixers who beat Theta Phi Alpha 20-12.

In a less traditional sport, Craig Bogar won the Frisbee Golf Championship while Rene Lovelace finished as the runner-up.

The Indoor Champions

Some of the fastest-paced sports action that the intramurals offer students take place indoors. Besides volleyball and soccer, student athletes bottled for bragging rights in tennis, racquetball and basketball.

In the Co-Rec volleyball championship, the Spikers outspiked the ISA Allies in a two game match 15-13, 15-9. The ISA Punkers defeated the Roadrunners 15-10, 15-13 to win the Women's championship. In the Men's division, Pimpo's Kids beat the ISA Lemons in AA competition while the Nuts whipped the Coasters to capturing the A crown.

Unlike volleyball, soccer had just two divisions. The Internationals shut-out Little Feet 2-0 to become the Men's Champs. In the Women's divisions, Theta Phi Alpha up-ended the Fourth Floor Frerets 1-0 to earn their championship.

In doubles events, racquetball and Two-on-Two Basketball (Co-Rec) proved competitive. Winning in Co-Rec Racquetballs were Kolp and Simons, while McQueeny and Norris won the Women's championship. The Men's AA title went to Brano and Dorbry and the A champs were Berry and Sabadell. The two-on-two basketball winners were a Glynes Herbert and Gerald East.

One-on-one basketball was also a popular game in the Rec-Center. Clarence Guillory beat Mike Powers in men's unrestricted play and Gerald East defeated Willie Davenport in the Men's Restricted bracket. In women's play Glynes Herbert beat Velda Wilson. The restricted women's title was won by M.J. McQueeny who out-scored Kim Marchand.

Another individual sport was tennis. The men had three different leagues (AA, A and B) while the women had only one. Winning the women's tennis title was Monica Brown with Jeanine Jacques being the Runner-up. The Men's AA champion was James Boldt, the A champ was Trey Reiber while David Klotz won the B league. John Cary, Steve Du Valle and John Smith were each runner-ups in their respective leagues (AA, A and B).

A POTPOURRI OF GAMES

The final sports closing out the intramural season were ultimate frisbee, the sports trivia bowl, golf, the Turkey Trot, and the annual free throw contest.

The ultimate frisbee championship was captured by the Plastic Attack who defeated Local Motion 12-7, 15-8.

The sports Trivia Bowl II was held on November 10 in the Wolf Pub. With sharp minds and quick hands, the Bushwackers captured the championship.

On the golf course, Chip Chiepalich won the Men's AA crown by out-putting Jack Capella. The Men's A Champion was Steve Decell, with David Dupree taking runner-up honors. In Women's golf, Chris Partlora had the best swing as she won the championship.

In an event which requires more endurance than any of the others, Bob Pelletier completed the Turkey trot in the fastest time. Scott Noya finished with the closest to the winning time in the male division. The Women's winner was Kathy Tucker with Debra Norton being the runner-up.

Jacobo Cordovia sank the most shots to win the free throw contest held in the Rec Center. Finishing in second place in the men's division was Al Hansen. The Women's free throw champ was Angie Bartush with Judy Seger close behind.

New Semester, New Sports . . .

With a change in semester came a change in intramural competition, as attention was now focused on indoor sports, with bowling, shuffle board and basketball bringing in 1983 intramurals.

In five-person basketball competition, the Lakers defeated Farce to capture the mens' AA title. In Mens' A competition, Camp beat the Average White team while in the womens' division, High Voltage beat Granny's to capture their respective titles. Rhythm strutted their stuff by whipping the Wooden Heads.

In H-O-R-S-E competition, Powers and McQueeny seized the men's and women's crown.

In bowling, Clark struck away his opponents in the mens' division while Marchand out-bowled her female counterparts.

Shuffle Board saw Fowler taking the championship for the Co-Rec season.

Spring Fever Spices Sports

As the weather grew warmer, competition became more heated, with softball, racquet ball, and badmiton inticing the Loyola community to play a sport.

The Prarie Dogs again proved dominant, this time on the baseball field, as they defeated the Beggars in the men's AA championship game. The Nuts were victorious in the mens' A competition, while Theta Phi Alpha won the womans' division. In the Co-Rec League, The Wooden Heads defeated the generics in the title game.

In Men's AA, A and B Leagues, Moore, Straham, Brohamer won the racquet ball titles in their respective leagues. In the woman's league, Matias captured the A title, and Scott won the B championship.

In badmiton singles, Bravo won the men's title as Bell captured the woman's title.

On March 11-12, the 3rd annual all-nighter was held in the Rec Center.

Fun and high spirits were on the agenda at the all nighter. The pie eating contest was one of the many fun filled games.

Work That Body

The Loyola community got physical as summer drew near in events which involved sheer endurance, brutal determination and untiring dedication.

In tennis doubles, Murray and Buell survived to win the mens' division title.

In Another racquet sport, badmiton, saw Marchard & Decell winning the championship.

In four person volleyball, the ISA Anteaters survived Undue Influence to capture the title.

The High-flyers defeated the Taste Buds in ultimate frisbee championship game.

In competition geared for the individual, weight-lifting and a 5K run proved succesful among participants.

Top- Mens weightlifting champions: Ted Longo (judge), Jim Shortal (Student Director), Matt Straley, Steve Cimino, Mark Garcia (judge), Dave Lion and John Stewart.

"New Orleans—
I'd never live anywhere else!"

That's not something you just hear occasionally. It's a phrase that's as common in New Orleans as red beans. And the reasons for it are about as numerous.

Sometimes, it's the rich New Orleans heritage, as colorful and varied as the personalities of her people. Sometimes it's just the relaxed attitude of the city. But blended with all this is the sense of an exciting future being built right this minute. And with all our respect for the past, New Orleans believes in the future.

And the Whitney believes in New Orleans.

Welcome to DIXIE Land
S.S.A.D.

At last we have returned . . . After two years of trouble, The Wolf has finally been revived. Within these pages, we have tried to capture the memories of the past year.

Two years ago, four students met with the dream of returning a Loyola tradition; at last, this dream has become a reality.

As always, this book has had supporters who stood beside us, even when things looked worst. Chief among these are Manny Cunard, our advisor Dr. Lloyd Chiasson, our Josten's rep Bill Hopkins, and of course, Fr. Carter, President of Loyola. But, our greatest benefactor has been the Chairman of the Communications Department, Dr. Larry Lorenz, who took the responsibility for a fading tradition which had little support from other faculty members.

There are also many others who must be thanked for their contributions: the C.R. Gibson company for the permission to use excerpts on the title pages of the class divisions; Mrs. Joan Tolhurst, Mr. Russell Cresson, Paula Develin, and the Maroon for the use of many needed pictures; and, special thanks to Mr. Robert Steiner of the Times Picayune/States-Item for any professional photography he supplied us with. We would also like to thank Melody Kahm and Jane De Silvia of the communications department, for being there when needed most.

This book is the product of one and a half years of planning, hard work and committment. It is our pleasure to present this, the 1983 Wolf Yearbook to Loyola-a tradition here to stay.
